

CEHD Undergraduate Travel Scholarship
College of Education and Human Development

The College of Education and Human Development is pleased to announce the CEHD Undergraduate Research Travel Scholarship. Consistent with the College's strategic aims, the aim of this scholarship program is to facilitate research dissemination by undergraduate students. Scholarships are only awarded to students presenting research at academic conferences. Preference is given to students engaged in one of the College's structured Undergraduate Research programs and students who do not have other research travel funds (e.g., funds through the faculty with whom they work). Grants of up to $500 are available, and monies awarded will be posted as a scholarship to the student's account.

To apply, students should complete the attached form and provide a copy of the acceptance letter. Students who are planning to present at a conference later, and thus have not yet submitted the abstract or paper for consideration, should still apply; however, funds will not be distributed until students provide a copy of the acceptance letter. Electronic copies should be submitted to Ms. Kristy Anderson (kanderson@tamu.edu), and a decision will follow soon thereafter. Grant monies will be distributed as they are available.

Scholarship recipients are expected to complete a report and copy of the conference abstract or paper by the end of the semester in which they were awarded.
